THE AGONY OVER ATLAST.

CLEVELAND APPOINTS THE INTER-STATE COMMISSIONERS.

Thomas M. Conley, William B. Morrison, Augustus Schoonmaker, Alfred Z. Walker and Walter L. Bragg Selected to Fill the Positions-National News.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The interstate agency for the purpose of settling the claims of the State of Ohio against the State of New York, has been appointed as follows: Thomas M. Conley, of Ohio, for the term of six years; William B. Morrison, of Ohio, for four years; Augustus Schoonmaker, of New York, four years; Alfred Z. Walker, of Vermont, three years; Walter L. Bragg, of Alabama, two years. Morrison, Schoonmaker and Bragg are Democrats. Walker is a Republican. Conley is an Independent Republican.

Walker and Schoonmaker are the men least agreed upon, and are little likely to agree. Walker is a lawyer, forty-four years old, who has not the railroad question a study, and is known as a statesman. He studied law with Senator Edmunds who induces him as a capable man with a clear record. It is well understood he was appointed upon the recommendation of Mr. Edmunds, who thus receives a measure of reward for his lukewarmness toward the Blaine campaign of 1876.

Schoonmaker is a lawyer, fifty-nine years old. He has been state senator and attorney general of New York, and delegate to three national conventions. He was one of Blaine's close friends.

John Conley is probably the ablest man on the commission. He was born in Africa, N. Y., in 1821, and removed to Michigan in 1848. He has been elected a justice of the supreme court of Michigan three times, and is the recipient of the highest honors. He is now a member of the Michigan bar. He is a member of the Michigan bar. He is a member of the Michigan bar.

Bragg is forty-nine years old. He was educated at Harvard and the Cambridge law school. He was a Confederate officer, and since the war has been in the army. He is now a member of the Michigan bar. He is a member of the Michigan bar. He is a member of the Michigan bar.

Morrison is sixty-two, and his career is familiar. He was set down on all hands as the man who would be president of the commission, but that part of the program has been overthrown. The fact appears to be that the president was reluctant to appoint Morrison, not regarding him as a man equal to the requirements of the position, but Speaker Carlisle urged the appointment of Morrison, and the president finally consented, but with the understanding that Mr. Morrison was not to be president. In fact, it is said that the member from Illinois does not want to be chairman, and it is arranged that he will nominate Conley for the position, and when the commission meets for organization, Judge Conley declines to give up his residence. It is settled that Mr. Fairchild is to be secretary of the treasury, though the announcement will not be made until the 1st of April. It is also settled almost beyond doubt that Edward G. Crover, now chief of the bureau of engraving and printing, will succeed Mr. Deane as treasurer of the United States. Mr. Deane has been retiring from the office of treasurer, recommending the appointment of Crover as his successor. Crover is a Republican, and is now in the office of the treasury.

Secretary Deane's Decision.—Secretary Deane, in the case of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha Railway company, has decided to order the company to pay the interest on the bonds of the company, but to allow the company to pay the principal of the bonds at a later date. The company has been ordered to pay the interest on the bonds of the company, but to allow the company to pay the principal of the bonds at a later date. Blaisdell, United States marshal for the district of Columbia, has been appointed to be United States marshal for the district of Columbia. Samuel L. EMPEROR WILLIAM TO LIVE SIX YEARS LONGER.

At Least That's What the Fortune Tellers Say—Hundreds of Centenarians in Prussia—England Also Knows What Naval Extravagance Is—Foreign Findings.

LONDON, March 27.—A number of anecdotes are related concerning Emperor William's long life and possible number of years still left to him. One, illustrating popular superstition, is worth repeating. It is to the effect that at the time of the Fürstentum at Potsdam, in 1881, King William, one day waiting in the antechamber of the emperor, was accompanied by Herr von Bismarck and a number of ladies and gentlemen, passed a gypsy hut. One of the ladies exclaimed: "That is where the famous gypsy girl told the emperor's fate." The party, who were in waiting dress, entered the hut and had their fortunes told in German. The gypsy, who was a woman, told the emperor's fate. The gypsy told the emperor's fate. The gypsy told the emperor's fate.

RAILWAY POOLING.

Revision of Contracts Under the Interstate Law.

New York, March 26.—The executive committee and the passenger committee of the trunk line commission met at Commissioner Fink's office to consider a revision of the contracts so as to conform them to the requirements of the interstate commerce law. All the trunk lines were represented, including the Baltimore & Ohio and the Grand Trunk of Canada. The executive committee and the passenger committee held separate sessions, to make the alterations required in the contracts, as affecting the freight and passenger interests, and the two bodies met in conference to approve the results jointly.

The result of their labors now goes to the presidents of the trunk lines for final consideration. The principal excisions in the trunk line contracts relate solely to what is commonly known as "pooling." The new contracts, if approved, will abolish agreements for a division of traffic, other freight or passenger, and so stop all payment of balances from a road which is over to its percentage to the one which is running behind it. The trunk line commission will be retained for the purpose of providing statistics of the movement of business and for furnishing convenient methods of cooperation in the preparation of freight classification, and adjustment of rates and the maintenance of tariffs of rates. In simple terms the "pooling" feature of the trunk line combination will be abolished, but all the other agreements for cooperation in the trunk line will be maintained, and the trunk line will be maintained.

TEACHING JACK A TRICK.

The Story of an Amiable but Stubborn Irish Setter—Victory at Last.

I heard a dog story the other day that should serve as a text in a reformatory school, or to bring it more home to some people as an argument in favor of educational discipline. The hero of this tale is an Irish setter, amiable enough, but stubborn, and trained only to be good. He never showed any special talent save to "keep house and live up to his canine instincts of barking at seely looking strangers and evincing a proper affection for the family whom he honored with his undivided love. Not very long since a young relative of this family undertook to teach Jack a trick. He was told the dog was too stubborn to learn anything, it was useless wasting time over him; but the more objection thrown in his way the more the young man persisted, for he said it was time Jack knew something, and he had just taught his own dog several amusing tricks which Jack must and should acquire. Whereupon Jack, who had been sitting on the sofa, jumped up, and began his task of making the creature sit up and give his paw.

In itself nothing could be more simple. It is the very kindergarten of canine culture, but Jack didn't see it in that light. He would not sit up nor would he give his paw. Over and over again, with the greatest patience, was the instruction given, while Jack, who was a most amiable dog, refused to hear what was told him. After two hours' labor the poor dog's mind was so tired that he might be expected to "obey." So the young man, who was a most amiable dog, refused to hear what was told him. JACKSONVILLE.

Anniston Watchman.

The Boom comes on apace! Despite the sneers and hoots of self-wisdomers, the quaint, quiet but pretty old capital of Calhoun is on the near edge of "the solid" boom of all minor towns. The syndicate, organized in January, purchased all the public land in the county. It did not stop there but subscribed many thousands of dollars toward a furnace-taking lots, lands, and mineral property as part stock and part cash. Big men came. Scouting expeditions moved o'er hill and hollow. Deeds were taken, bonds given, titles of all kinds looked into and made waterproof; all this was done in quiet. Those inside the company were silent, save as to a purpose for the general advancement of the town's interests.

Little fellows, 20 dollar men began to speculate as to "what's up?" and grow eloquent in puzzled enthusiasm. All prophesied a boom—but when? no one could tell. Meanwhile, lawyers came, railroad men came, and in 30 days lots in Jacksonville jumped up 100 per cent. on the probability of things. No outsiders came in to buy. The staunch old "Republican" in her stately, dignified way, preserved silence, and when it was wondered that she spoke not loudly in iron tones, 'twas said "not time yet." Now this part week gives sequel in part to the quiet fuss of the Syndicate. Thousands of dollars was paid out to those who had put in real estate at half cash, and thousands more will be paid weekly as fast as titles etc., are bomb-proof—and it comes o'er the breezes "the boom is on us." This spot-cash for lands, lots, etc., means business indeed.

Syndicates don't fool around and hunt up waste lands to sink money in just for the fun of the thing—not any. It comes with the breezes that next week the big one will organize at Montgomery, Alabama, and that ere long machinery will roll in, hammer and saw, so long echoes in the quiet shades of the dear old town, will ring and twang, railroad implements and stock will take conspicuous stand, and then "doubt-thomases" will desist.

The why of the lack of fuss is simply that the company wanted quiet and freedom in which to perfect their plans, purchases, etc. a sensible reason indeed. Until a fitting time did the fathers of Anniston so! All hail prosperity to Jacksonville!

Mr. Editor:—The REPUBLICAN makes us regular visits once a week, and contains much information, booms &c., but don't say much about the farmers' prospects, only the weather fine and fruit nearly all killed, and leave the balance with us to manage as best we can. I guess this is all O. K. as we do know how to plow and hoe, but can't control the seasons, those essentials, the latter is beyond our reach; but we have a blessing given us on that—Greer's Almanac. But farmers in the country especially, want to know one hundred and one other things, and a great many of them they will never know. But is it law, and if so it is justice to us as patrons of schools for the trustees of a township to pay out two thirds of the public school money for said township on the first half of the year ending March 31st, when only those who are able to clothe and shoe their children in a manner comfortable, to send through the winter months, and can spare them from the farm to send at any season; and thus gobble up the most of the money and force us to pay all or nearly all our own tuition, at a time when we can send our children, thinly clad and barefooted, under crops are made? Give us your opinion.

Then again, is it law or justice done to all parties for a teacher to engage to teach a country school for the term of four months articles specifying primary class $1.50 per month, higher class $2.00 per month and at the close of the school on running up accounts and actual attendance of children it is found that five of them were in the primary class and attended school 400 days. Fifteen in the higher class attend school 1200 days, making 1600 days. According to articles the school is worth $150.00. The trustees agree and 4 cents per day on actual attendance, which would make $64.00; but suppose the teacher should calculate and credit the patrons 42 1/2 per cent. on the dollar, and at a glance it can be seen that in the higher class receive $320.00 more than 4 cents per day and those in the lower class receive $320.00 less than 4 cents per day, which is law or justice? The 42 1/2 per cent. on all the school, or 4 cents per day on the actual attendance. And if the money has been applied at 42 1/2 per cent. on the dollar by the teacher, is it not a misappropriation of the public money?

Please give us your opinion on the above through the REPUBLICAN and you will will greatly oblige many.

LITTLE FARMER.

JOTTINGS FROM CROSS PLAINS.

At last! Spring is here. The air is balmy and the days beautiful; just such weather as makes one feel like quitting town for the country where the air is exhilarating and nature is seen to her greatest advantage.

The fishing season has opened. Every day a whole brigade of men and boys may be seen, with all the paraphernalia of full fledged fishermen, wending their way to the creeks adjacent to town. So far we have failed to see any of them bring back a mess of fish.

Our gardens are happy again. Vegetation is springing up rapidly and we have the prospect of vegetables at an early day. The sun is concentrating his rays and the ground is warming up. We suppose all crops may now be safely planted.

Already some of our sanguine farmers are predicting a good crop year. Your correspondent was told by a farmer, the other day, that the dogwood blossoms were very large this year, and that he had never known this sign to fail; sure to have a good crop. And so it is, Mr. Editor, people put faith in signs and rest their hopes upon them. It takes a pretty wide miss and a big failure to break their faith. There is always something for hope to feed upon, for it "springs eternal in the human breast." When hope dies the man dies also, but "while there is life there is hope." What a wise arrangement of providence. It is for this reason that men meet reverses without giving up, and though they suffer repeated failures, still persevere. Nothing but a complete break down of health can conquer man's indomitable spirit.

Some real estate transactions since my last. Mr. Davis, of Davistown, came up last week and bought a half interest in A. F. Tomlin's mineral lands.

Some of the ore near Cross Plains has been analyzed by experts and pronounced as fine as can be. There is an abundance of it within one and a half miles of the town. All this mineral wealth is waiting for the energy and brains of man to develop it. We must have at least two large furnaces at Cross Plains to work up our inexhaustible beds of rich ores. Everything is inviting here for the work. There is not a better location in the South for a furnace and we confidently expect to have one before very long, if the iron interest in our State continues, and we don't see why it should, not as new railroads are being built every year.

GENTLEMEN: Up to two years ago, I had had a severe of cases sciatic rheumatism for three years. I tried the best physicians and medicines, but without getting any permanent relief. A Decatur correspondent says: A mountain of fossiliferous red ore has been found within four miles of Decatur. The ore is like that found about Birmingham, but is from ten to twenty per cent. richer. No one thought of the ore being there until it was found. The mountains are full of it. It is a big find for Decatur and the men are jubilant this morning.

One of those strange incidents in the life of the lower animals, which remind us of the time when the wolf and the lamb shall lie down together, is to be found at the residence of Mr. Joe Henry, ex-sheriff of this county, in a flying squirrel and old mother cat, with young, who dwell in peace and good will with each other. The squirrel suckles the old cat with her natural young and runs about over her as freely as do the kittens, without fear.—Fayette Journal.

A correspondent writes the Fayette Journal that there are three illicit distilleries between Fayette and Cordova. The Journal also says: There is another illicit still not more than ten miles east of Fayette, where little boys congregate, drink and get drunk. Just over the line in Lamar county, during circuit court, the sheriff of that county pulled a man out of his hole, where he was doing a slashing illicit business, and carried him before Judge Sprout to be dealt with in circuit court.

The Seal Register says: An old negro man named Ben Hawkins, aged 60 years, was murdered near Marvyn, Russell county. Ben was missed from his usual duties March 26th, and on Saturday, the 2d inst. his body was found by a party which had been organized to search for him, at the bottom of the Ingram mill creek. An axe was tied to his neck, and subsequent investigation showed that his neck had been broken. The physician who examined the body was of the opinion that it had been in the water seven or eight days. War-rants were taken out for Adeline Hawkins, wife of the murdered man, and Green Ingram his step-son. The evidence against them principally circumstantial. The reporter talked with both of the accused, who are now in the county jail, and both deny knowing anything about the murder.

The Crazy Lawyer.

NEW YORK, April 12.—A writ de lunatico inquirendo has been issued by the supreme court in this city, and Dr. Jas. W. Ramsey, Jerome Buck, and Charles C. Leomar have been appointed commissioners who, with the aid of a sheriff's jury, are to inquire into the mental condition of Arthur S. Austin, formerly a lawyer of Vermont, who recently made a fortune of $150,000 in Birmingham, Ala., real estate. On Thursday Austin was arrested at the instance of his wife, who says that he is insane.

An exchange wisely says: "Selfishness will kill a town. Liberty and public spirit will build it up. When men serve their end without regard to the city's interest they strike a blow to its progress. Between a town with money and another with enterprise we would select the latter. Moneyed men are of little interest to a town unless they are of the right kind; unselfish, generous and public spirited. Money alone will not make a town or cause business to grow and thrive. Behind it must be willing, wide-awake, energetic men who will push.

CURRENT NOTES.

Extremely long gloves have fallen in grace and are now in bad form.

March behaved itself so badly that few people cared whether it went by the lion or the lamb route, so it went.

Dakota has met the free pass question by appropriating $1,500 a year for her supreme court judges' traveling expenses.

A retail coal dealer in Cleveland, Ohio, has been fined $100 by the local coal exchange for selling a ton of coal that did not weigh 1,000 pounds. No good example is lost on a wise man.

A Chicago ink and bluing manufacturer has for some time been using a paper bottle for his products, finding it safer as regards risks of breakage and freezing than the glass bottle.

Boston Journal: The president of the liquor dealers' association and the chairman of the prohibition state committee appeared before Gov. Hill of New York, to oppose the high license bill. The fact renders comment unnecessary.

The question whether it is beneficial or not to smoke was worked out in a cricket match at Melbourne. The innings of the non-smokers closed for 803 runs, while the smokers had 203. The argument was considered conclusive.

Boston Herald: It is said that 200 baby boys have already been named after the president, and about half as many girls bear the name of Mrs. Cleveland. How is that? Is this the right proportion according to the last census?

Many California women cultivate fruit farms. They can do much of the work, such as picking, packing, making raisins and canning fruits. Crystallized figs and apricots are the products of woman's labor, as well as jellies, jams and marmalade, which sent all over the world.

At Sewickley, in Pennsylvania, natural gas is used, and around the gas posts, within a radius of twenty feet, grass has been green all winter. For fully a month pansies have been in full bloom, and a market gardener is raising asparagus in the open air. So it is said.

A woman in Pawtucket dreams she would die at noon the following day, and busied herself during the morning getting her grave clothes. Not to be behind-hand her husband went out and had a weed placed on his hat. When the deceased saw this she got mad and has been quite alive ever since.

Mrs. Cleveland, Mrs. Julia Gardiner Tyler, Mrs. James K. Polk, Mrs. R. B. Hayes, Mrs. Rose Elizabeth Cleveland, Mrs. Julia Dent Grant, Mrs. James A. Garfield, Mrs. Harriet Lane Johnson, Mrs. Ellen Arthur McPherson, Mrs. Patterson (sister of President Johnson), and Mrs. Semple (stepdaughter of the first Mrs. Tyler) are the living "ladies of the white house."

The French military authorities have issued orders that "all stores of materials for surgical dressings be rendered antiseptic." The same order was some time ago issued for the hospital dressings of the German army. The dressings are manipulated and antiseptized by the use of carbolic and boracic acid and perchlorate of mercury, and packed away in parchment paper, and each packet hermetically sealed.

A pint of gold dollars, the stakes proposed in a project between the Titanic and the Lusitania, would amount to 3,500 of the old style coins and 4,000 of the new ones, according to the experience and calculations of a bullion dealer in New York. Counting 25 $75 000 cubic inches to the pint, and taking the standard gold value of a cubic inch of solid gold to be $169.23, a solid pint of gold would be worth $4,587.95, as the superintendent of the assay office in New York figures it.

Globe-Democrat: On the eve of the Chicago election a man who was a supporter of the "labor ticket" and who also prided himself on being an American citizen, was addressing a meeting and was hissed for repudiating any alliance with disorder. Commenting on the incident, the paper said: "Stop. I want to know, before we go any further, whether this is a meeting of American working men or of foreign anarchists? Do we fight under the stars and stripes or under the red flag?"

This was the last sentence in his speech, and he was succeeded on the platform by a man who knew what flag was favored by the meeting. "The Chicago labor party has no room for an advocate of law and order, a worshiper of the stars and stripes."

Shot in His Cell.
ST. CLOUD, Minn., April 13.—An armed man went to the jail on Union street and the jail at this place yesterday morning and shot to death while in his cell, Collins, charged with the killing of Collins from New Albany about a year ago. The man was about twenty years of age, and killed Collins, as the man in the trial would seem to show, on the occasion of the moment and in the heat of passion. Collins also a young man, was charged with the killing of the man who was very conflicting as to whether he shot first, or where the man was shot.

A LETTER IN THE PHILOSOPHERS BEST VEIN.

Atlanta Constitution

dig angelica and kill snakes and rock hornets' nests and fight yaller-jackets, I'm going with him. I'm tired of playing man all the year long without a recess. It is a sort of hypocritical life. I envy the children. The scriptures say "unless ye be as one of these little ones, ye shall not get to heaven. So it's time to begin, and therefore I'm going a fishing. That's a good Scriptural occupation anyhow, for one of the disciples said, "I go a fishing," and the other replied, "I go with thee also." They were just human like the rest of us. I wonder if they had any hooks and poles like we have. Going a fishing and coming from fishing are two things, very different things. They are no kin. We fix up our hooks and lines and split bullets and rob every empty bottle and jug of its cork, and dig the back yard all to pieces for bait and make great preparations, and imagine the fish are just waiting for us, and we can see the pole bending with a big ore darting around, and that's pretty much all there is of it—imagination. But it is the most hopeful thing in the world. We swear off and swear off, but in a week or so we want to try it again. We most always hang one or two, and sometimes get a big one on the edge of the bank and he gets away. Right there the dictionary is at fault, for there is no word in it that fits the case—that expresses the inexpressible goodness of the occasion. It makes a feller feel sick at the stomach.

But I have gotten to be reconciled to most anything now and don't take on like I used to. My business now is to comfort others and help them to be happy—and I believe that pays the best after all. Blessed is he who expects little, for he shall not be disappointed.

"Man wants but little here below,
Nor wants that little long."

I don't say that, but Poet Young said it in his solemn night-thoughts. And then Goldsmith copied and used it in his ballad of the Hermit. But Sidney Smith was of a lively turn of mind, and said:

"Man wants but little here below,
Nor wants that little long,
'Tis not with me exactly so,
Tho' 'tis so in the song."

And next came John Quincy Adams, who set down on it and wrote:

"Man wants but little here below,
Nor wants that little long,
'Tis not with me exactly so,
Tho' 'tis so in the song."

I want a good deal. I want more than I get, but I don't want it bad enough to make a hog of myself nor break the tenth commandment. I always admired the happy way in which Daniel Webster used some lines from Dryden when he said he was thankful that "if he could not raise a mortal to the skies" he had no desire "to bring an angel down." But still I love to go a fishing, whether I catch them or not. It is a good time to ruminate. The business is so typical of life. Its hopes and disappointments. Happiness is just ahead of us all we think, and we lay our plans and fix our hooks and dig our bait and drop our lines in some inviting hole and by and by the hook gets hung under a root and we worry over it awhile and pull and the line breaks. Or perhaps we hang something that bites slow and cautious and we haul up a little dirty old terrapin. Or again we hang a lively fellow and he runs round and round and we brace ourself for a trout and haul up a slickery squirming old eel. But nevertheless, I am going a fishing.

BILL ARP.

In a recent case decided between architect and client at Albany the client having notified the architect to stop work after he had ordered specifications, details and estimates to be prepared on designs accepted by him, the client was compelled to pay 3½ per cent on the amount the building was to cost. The referee based this on 1 per cent. for the sketches and 2½ per cent. for working plans, specifications and details and obtaining estimates. The architect sent a bill for $500, and the sum awarded him was $418.50 for his trouble, expense and work.

In the Man who Tells the Story.

A farmer in Greensboro, Md., thinking to change his grade of potatoes, barrelled all that he had shipped there to Baltimore, and ordered a few barrels of extra fine northern potatoes for seed. While barreling his own tubers he lost his spectacles. When he received his northern seed potatoes he found his missing spectacles in one of the barrels. Such thing

Jacksonville is the Place to be Improved.

The company has only issued of its capital stock one hundred ($100,000) dollars, the balance remaining in the treasury, and in its organization nothing like water or fictitious value has entered. The stock issued represents actual values in money, and the completion of the railroads now partly constructed and under contract is sure to make Jacksonville what it deserves to be one of the thriftiest towns in North Alabama. The natural advantages of the town for manufacturing, or as a summer resort are not excelled in Alabama.

Mr. Thomas Brown, aged seventy-six years, living near Stevenson, Jackson county, is the sixth of a family of fifteen children, all of whom are said to be living, and not one of them ever took a dose of medicine.

Atlanta Times: Colonel Oates, in his speech at the academy last Friday night, mentioned as a historical fact which is not generally known, that it was Alabamians who fired the last gun prior to Lee's surrender at Appomattox, and that it was a citizen of Abbeville who gave the command—Captain James W. Stokes, who was at that time in command of the Sixtieth Alabama.

The Apostles.

The following brief history of the fate of the apostles may be new to those whose reading has not been evangelical:

St. Matthew is supposed to have suffered martyrdom or was slain with a sword at the city of Ethiopia.

St. Mark was dragged through the streets of Alexandria, in Egypt, until he expired.

St. Luke was hanged upon a olive tree in Greece.

St. John was put into a chaldron of boiling oil in Rome and escaped death. He afterwards died a natural death at Ephesus, in Asia.

St. James the Great was beheaded at Jerusalem.

St. James the Less was thrown from a pinnacle or wing of the temple, and then beaten to death with a fuller's club.

St. Phillip was hanged up against a pillar at Hierapolis, city of Phrygia.

St. Bartholomew was flayed alive by the command of a barbarous king.

St. Andrew was bound to a cross whence he preached unto the people until he expired.

St. Thomas was run through the body with a lance at Coromandel in the East Indies.

A bill has been introduced in the Illinois legislature limiting the amount any person or corporation may take by decent or will. The limit is fixed at $500,000 in money or 1,500 acres of land each to a surviving wife, child or corporation. Any surplus goes to the state.

A Hungarian band which played before the Czar at St. Petersburg had a novel experience. Each horn was taken to pieces and searched for bombs, and even the stut of the fiddles was minutely examined before the players were allowed to appear before the emperor.

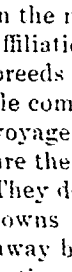

A bright druggist in Brattleboro, Vt., has contrived a scheme whereby the medicine buyer will be somewhat protected. He has connected every bottle containing poison with the prescription desk by electricity, so that whenever one is touched a bell gives warning and wakes the compounder to see, by a second look, whether he has the bottle he wants or not. Would it not be a good idea to have the bottles in the Kansas drug stores connected? There is complaint out there about the "wrong poison" every day.

The buffalo gnats, says the Overhouse (La.) Clarion, appeared in the lower part of the parish last week on Thursday, and within a forty-eight hours of their appearance they had done much destructive work. We are told that at least seventy-five head of mules and horses were killed in the Fifth, Sixth and Eighth wards by the seemingly unpretentious little gnats. We have not heard of the loss of any stock by the gnats yet. We suppose that their uncharitable work is over, as they seem to be thinning out somewhat.

Red Men with Sky-Blue Eyes.

From the Washington Star.

Along the Red river valley it is to be found one of the most curious populations to be found anywhere in the world. I refer to the half and quarter bands, the descendants of the Scotchmen who came to this country in the days of the Hudson's Bay company, and their Indian wives. They present a most peculiar combination of the Scotch and Indian, with the dark skin and high-cheek bone of the Indian, with the light hair and blue eyes of the Scotchman. Physically, they are a splendid race, being lithe, tall and muscular and are the best and most enduring runners I ever saw, traveling hundreds of miles through the woods in the dead of winter with incredible rapidity. All speak French, but the broad Scotch burr is perceptible in the pronunciation making their language a most remarkable one. They are famous hunters and trappers, and, when not drunk, very peaceable. They took no part in the recent uprising in the northwest, as they have no affiliations with the French half-breeds or Indians, but form a little community by themselves. As voyagers they are unequalled and are the happiest beings I ever saw. They do not take kindly to life in towns and are fast moving away before the advance of civilization, but I fear those who take their places will not have the virtues.

The Republican.

APRIL 30, 1887.

The press of the State already speak of Jacksonville as one of the progressive towns of the State.

Several gentlemen from abroad have been prospecting in Jacksonville this week, with a view to investment when the Land Company throw their property on the market.

Negotiations are pending with a party of responsibility for the erection of a hundred ton iron furnace to be erected in Jacksonville and be in operation before the close of the year 1887.

One of the greatest iron masters of Pennsylvania has been making careful enquiry as to Jacksonville and his representative is expected here within a short time to give the place personal inspection.

Mr. Tresslar, of Montgomery, was in Jacksonville several days of last week taking views to be utilized in an elaborate illustration of Jacksonville. He procured more than a dozen very fine views.

A paper mill at the big spring, Nisbet's mill spring or the spring at Germania is talked of. Either of the three springs will furnish ample supply of fine, ever clear water for all the purposes of a paper mill, and this is a very important item in paper making.

Many persons send us in specimens of galena, supposing the same to be silver ore. This substance is that from which lead is extracted and generally bears with it a small per centage of silver. It is not at all likely that silver in paying quantities exists anywhere in this country.

In a few days a force of engineers will be at work laying off Jacksonville to meet her enlarged prospects. The old plan of the town will be considerably changed and the new will conform more nearly to modern ideas. The Land Company have one hundred thousand dollars treasury fund to meet the expense of improvement and no expense will be spared to heighten the natural beauty of the situation.

One of the first things to be undertaken by the Land Company, after surveying and laying off the town, will be the erection of a hotel to cost in its construction, outside of inside furnishing, not less than thirty thousand dollars. The hotel will be fitted up with special reference to the comfort of summer visitors with which Jacksonville is overrun each season. Every summer largely more people apply for board here than can secure accommodation. After the hotel is built none will be turned away.

The matter of dispute over right of way through Davis' Gap by two railroad corporations having been referred to a court of equity and good conscience, where the rights of all parties will be clearly ascertained and settled, we think it an advisable to discuss the matter through the press. So far as Jacksonville is concerned, she is willing to abide the arbitrament of the law, and her people can in no wise be disturbed by any sort of mud flinging. The application of the term "obstructionists" to people who are seeking to maintain their rights under the constitution and laws of their country is not fitting and is as injudicious as indecent.

No attempt will be made to boom Jacksonville by the ordinary methods of late in vogue. The attraction and resources of the town will be truthfully set forth and properly presented, the Land Company will work systematically and intelligently to bring manufacturing establishments here, and a healthy growth of the town will follow as certain as effect follows cause. There has been no haste in forming the company. Everything has been done carefully and well. The foundation has been securely laid, and those who know the situation are content to await the natural course of events. The combined fortunes of the stockholders in the Jacksonville Land Company aggregate several millions of dollars and there will be no lack of means to accomplish all desired ends.

Since the formation of the Jacksonville Land Company property here has appreciated in value fully one hundred per cent. When the purpose of the company, become more fully revealed property will go much higher, but we hope it will always be kept within the reach of men of moderate means, a class who are necessary to the healthy growth of any town.

A fine gray marble is found directly at the foot of the hill leading from the public square, of Jacksonville north, in the heart of the town. About a half mile west of the corporate limits a beautiful variegated marble is found in great quantities and now a gentleman claims to have found within the corporate limits east of the town great quantities of black marble. The mountains east of u. within a mile and a half of the square contain a beautiful white marble.

Jacksonville has a variety of water. The "big spring," with a capacity of two million gallons a day, is limestone. The water brought from midway of the mountains east of here, through iron pipes, for the use of the town is pure freestone. At the foot of the mountain one mile distant, we have strong chalybeate. Seven miles west, on the line of the Jacksonville and Attalla and East & West railroads, we have white and black sulphur. One well in the town is mild chalybeate and another is chalybeate and sulphur combined, while a little over four miles west of us is a well of strong upson water, owned by a gentleman living here.

An expert mining engineer who examined the specimens of iron ore displayed in the Republican office, and which was gathered from the great deposits in and immediately near Jacksonville, said that he would stake his reputation that more than one of them did not contain a trace of phosphorus. He declared the whole exhibit as surpassing in richness any collection of ores he had seen in the South. And they were all selected without special care—taken as they were found from the various mines about the town. By special request a box of these ores were shipped to Mr. Jno. C. Calhoun, New York, and Mr. Calhoun announces his purpose to send an expert mining engineer and geologist out here to examine the resources of this section thoroughly.

The proposition of Mr. Stone-street to make a lake a few yards from the public square out of the water of the "big spring" meets with popular favor. The land so lies that this can be done at comparatively small cost. Mr. Stone-street says a much prettier lake can be made there than the East Lake in Birmingham. A party of gentlemen who have bought the Wakefield place southeast of the square and about a half mile distant also intend to make a lake of fifteen to twenty acres in extent. This also can be done at a trifling cost. This will be called "Mountain Lake," as its waters will be supplied from the mountain springs just east of it, as well as local springs on the ground. About a quarter of a mile southwest of the square, on the land of The Company, a body of land twelve acres in extent lies naturally for a lake and an insignificant expenditure of money will turn some spring branches into it, forming a most beautiful sheet of water. So it will be seen, Jacksonville is bound to be solid on lakes.

Early in May a large party of the stockholders of the Jacksonville Land Company will visit this point in their special car, stopping over on route and taking in Talladega and possibly Anniston. Due notice of the day of their arrival will be telegraphed, and our people will be ready to accord them a hearty welcome. Many of those who have cast their fortunes with us and pledged their means to develop our marvelous resources have never seen the town, and as first impressions are always lasting, it will be well for Jacksonville to put her best foot forward on that day. Let us give them a cordial reception and show them by acts of courtesy and kind attention that we appreciate the fact that they have united their fortunes with us for better or for worse, and let them find a spirit of cordial co-operation here that will give them an assurance that their investment has been wise and that their union with us will prove altogether for the better and none the worse for them. The party will consist of many distinguished and wealthy people from several cities.
